

Why Should I Join Wildlife Action?

I'm glad you asked me that question. Wildlife Action believes that everything that happens in this good earth falls in one of five categories which is our WLA Law: Preservation; Conservation; Education; Sportsmanship; and Fellowship.

If you have a problem or issue that you want to preserve or conserve, your next question should be, "How do you solve it?" Your goal should be that of WLA's slogan, "To Put Back More Than We Take"; in other words, making it better than it is now. You solve the problem with our motto, "Local Folks Solving Local Problems."

In essence, Wildlife Action gives you a vehicle to accomplish any goal or solve any problem that could possibly exist on this good earth. If the problem is so large that you and your community cannot solve it, then you may go up to our state level and seek help. If the problem is too large for state, then you would eventually work your way to our national level.

To streamline this effort, Wildlife Action has four divisions other than the administrative division: hunting; fishing; environment; and education. Those divisions are at the local, state, and national levels.

All you have to do if you begin at the bottom is to make two phone calls on a toll free line and you can reach the top. So, there is no excuse why this world should not get better. If you truly believe that you would like to be a part of an action team, we encourage you to join Wildlife Action.

You can join and "get involved" in the action, or you can be a member in "spirit only." Either way, you are helping this good earth and ensuring a safer future for your grandchildren.
